Anti-fouling coating is the most common maintenance carried out with yachts & boats

Fouling can lead to loss of vessel's performance, hull durability, high fuel consumption, damaged paint system, and blocked water inlets.

Antifouling coatings are specialized paints applied to the vessel's hull to prevent or slow down the growth or formation of marine organisms, barnacles, weeds, or algae.

Antifouling coatings also act as a barrier against metal hull corrosion or GRP hull osmosis.

We provide expert consultation from the product manufacturers with coating specifications on client request.

Teak Decking

- Customized teak deck installation
- Restoration & renew teak deck surface
- Re-caulking
- Deck repair & refurbishment

We use Burmese Teak for yacht decking and the distinct golden coloured appearance lightens up living spaces.

Yacht Decking is carried out with selected lumber that quarter sawen cut vertical edge grain planks.

Quarter sawn lumber is produced by first quartering the log and then sawing it perpendicular to the growth rings. All of the boards sawn thus are of radial grain. We neither use planks with knots and circular design nor defective.

Maintaining the appearance and condition of decking requires regular maintenance to avoid greying. We offer a complete range of teak maintenance and restoration services.
